At my salesroom, 65 Queen Street, I will sell at Public Auction, a large quantity of

NEW AGATE WARE,
TEA POTS,
TEA KETTLES AND COFFEE POTS.

This is an opportunity for families.

JAS. F. MORGAN,
AUCTIONEER.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

To Patrons of Oahu College: The following excerpt is from Article XXIII of the Statutes of Oahu College:

"College Bills. The tuition fee for the Academy is Thirteen Dollars per term; for Punahou School, Eight Dollars per term. Special courses are given at a special rate, according to the nature and amount of instruction. Registration is not complete until the tuition and all other charges are paid. A student whose registration is incomplete is not admitted to regular standing in any class."

On the Treasurer's books are "bad bills" amounting approximately to Twelve Hundred Dollars, made up almost entirely of unpaid Tuition, Board and Supply accounts. In order that this irregularity may stop at once, Oahu College, like other institutions of its grade and character, will hereafter do business on a cash basis.

Beginning with the Spring Term, April 8, 1901, the above statutory regulation will be rigidly enforced. All students, regular and special, in the Academy and Punahou School will pay tuition and other regular charges before beginning the Term's work. Board bills at Punahou are payable monthly, in advance. In case of continued absence a corresponding rebate will be made.

Respectfully,
TRUSTEES OF OAHU COLLEGE,
By A. M. SMITH, President.

A VISITING STATESMAN

Congressman E. J. Hill's Entertain- ing Talk.

WILCOX'S SMALL INFLUENCE

When the Members of Congress
Wanted to Know About Hawaii
They Went to Haywood.

Congressman E. J. Hill of the Fourth District of Connecticut, and a Republican, is a visitor in the City, arriving yesterday on the transport Buford. He is the guest of L. A. Thurston and will visit the usual points of interest during the brief stay of the vessel in Honolulu. Congressman Hill is on his way around the world, and, to use his own expression, is "trying to see the outlying countries which the United States is taking in so fast."

From Honolulu his vessel goes to Guam and thence to Manila, where Mr. Hill hopes to make a stay of at least two weeks, and at the most four weeks. He has no mission as a Congressman, but is merely on a trip of education and pleasure. He will make a study of conditions in the Philippines as far as possible, and as yet has no opinion to express concerning the future of the archipelago. From Manila he goes to Hongkong, thence to Canton and Shanghai and afterwards will spend many weeks in Japan. He will next visit Vladivostok, and make a voyage of 1,500 miles on the Amur river. He will then go by rail to St. Petersburg and by easy stages return to his home in Connecticut, where in private life he is a banker, and is the vice president of the National Bank of New York, Conn.

Mr. Hill is a member of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, and the Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures, and as such has had much to do with the affairs of Hawaii in a financial way. In an interview accorded an Advertiser reporter yesterday evening, Congressman Hill said with reference to the Hawaiian redemption bill which failed of passage during the last session of Congress:

"Yes, I did have something to do with the redemption bill. The bill originally came before the committee two years ago upon the return of the Hawaiian Commission from the Islands. No action was taken at that time, inasmuch as it seemed to involve the pending fight in the United States on the silver question. In the first session of the Fifty-sixth Congress the bill went to the Committee on Territories. The committee reported favorably on the measure, but it was perhaps a little unfortunate that the bill should have contained a clause which made it rather embarrassing under the circumstances in view of the political issues in the United States. This clause was to the effect that when the coinage of Hawaii was taken up by the United States it should be re-coined into pieces of the same denomination. That would of course have the effect of making us coin about half a million legal tender silver dollars, and we certainly have these to burn at the present time. There was a good deal of objection to the bill on that account. There would not have been the slightest objection to it had the matter of coinage and re-coining been left to the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury, the same as with the Porto Rico coins. There was not the slightest objection to taking the coins at par and substituting for them United States coins. We cannot see that it makes any difference to the Hawaiian Government how the coins are taken up and disposed of."

"There is no question in my mind but that the bill will pass at the next session of Congress in December. It is simply an objection to that clause in the bill on the silver issues, but which has no interest whatever to the Hawaiian Government."

"Did Wilcox's break have anything to do with the bill being held up?" was asked of the Congressman.

"No; I don't believe it did. The Democrats raised the objection to the consideration of the bill. The Democratic members of the Committee on Coinage made this objection. I was not present at the time, being busy with the Committee on Banking, and did not hear of it until three-quarters of an hour afterwards. The objection was that it would make an excess of silver coins. When the Committee on Territories found this objection to exist, the Republicans passed through the Committee on Territories an amendment covering that particular point and providing that the bullion should be held in the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury; then the Democrats objected to it coming up in that way. In the rush and hurry of the last two or three weeks it was finally not brought up. In my judgment there is no question but what the Hawaiian coinage will be taken up as bullion to be disposed of at the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury."

"What are the chances for a Pacific cable?" was asked.

"I think the chances are good, and the cable will be owned by the Government rather than by a subsidized company. That is my judgment. I don't think there is any question about it. At the next session I think that a bill will be passed to that effect. There is a strong sentiment in Congress against any subsidizing of companies."

"What are the chances in the next Congress in regard to the Nicaragua canal?"

"Well, every vote so far taken shows a disposition to dig the canal, but there are diplomatic questions which stand in the way. Then there is another important question—Nicaragua or the Panama route?"

"I think the Commission, and I have good authority for so stating it, are going to report in favor of the Panama canal. There is a growing feeling that the Panama route should be chosen. With the Nicaragua route there are so many diplomatic relations that are unsettled, and the action of England in regard to the matter is so uncertain, that it seems the ground can never be cleared. I don't think there is any doubt about the sentiment of Congress in general, which is strongly in favor of the canal, but the main question is which route shall it be? It will also be built by the Government."

"What is the general feeling in Congress relative to Wilcox and the party he represents?"

"Well, that is not a very difficult question to answer, and yet it is an embarrassing one. On the whole, I don't think that Congress felt Wilcox's presence. Congressmen who had anything to ascertain relative to Hawaiian affairs, generally went to Haywood."

Mr. Hill is a Yale graduate of the class of '65 and carries the degree of M.A. He has served twice as Burgess of New York, twice as Chairman of the Board of School Visitors, was the Fourth District delegate to the National Republican Convention in 1884; was a member of the Connecticut Senate for 1886-87; served one term upon the Republican State Central Committee; was elected to the Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth Congresses, and re-elected to the Fifty-sixth Congress, receiving 23,707 votes.

LATEST NEWS OF CURRENT SPORT

Thomas W. Lawson Temporarily Retires From American Turf.

Thomas W. Lawson has decided to quit the turf, at least for the present. Borlma is the only horse of the many valuable ones owned by him that will appear in the track this year in his colors.

Mr. Lawson's horses are already entered for early-closing trotting classes at Readville, Detroit, Cleveland and Syracuse. His reasons for this course are as yet a mystery. Possibly the prominent part he expects to take in this season's yachting may have something to do with his decision to race only Borlma this season.

Mr. Lawson has forty horses in training that represent a fortune. None of them will be sold but will be taken to his farm as soon as the paddocks are ready for occupancy. This leads to the belief that his retirement from the turf is only temporary.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S HAIR.

Its Profusion, at Her Age, Has Always Been a Wonder.

Over 80 years old, Queen Victoria yet has luxuriant hair, which has for years been a marvel. The court physician, following Prof. Unna's discovery, has treated Her Majesty's scalp with a germ destroying preparation, which he has always kept secret. It is now known, however, that the remedy for dandruff, the germ destroying element, is embodied in Newbro's Herpicide, the only hair preparation on the market that does destroy the dandruff germ. Without dandruff, hair will grow profusely, and falling hair will be stopped. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect."

Miss Mamie Good Married.

The following article appeared in the Harrisburg (Pa.) Telegraph of March 14, 1901:

"Frederick Bryan, of Harrisburg, and Miss Mamie E. Good, of Middletown, California, were united in wedlock at the parsonage of Memorial United Brethren church by the pastor, Rev. A. A. Long, on the 12th inst. at noon."

Miss Good was well and popularly known in Honolulu, having gone through the High School here, and being a daughter of Captain Good.
